BIOGRAPHY: Dr. Christopher J. Laing, MRCVS, PhD Vice President, Science and Technology

Christopher Laing, MRCVS, PhD, is Vice President, Science and Technology, at the University City Science Center (www.sciencecenter.org), where he oversees commercialization programs, startup investment, and business incubation. Since 2009, participants of these programs have collectively raised hundreds of millions in venture financing. Dr. Laing provides guidance in early business and product development planning, in securing the resources required to retire early technology risks. His particular areas of expertise include life sciences and healthcare. Dr. Laing serves on the Board of Directors of the South Jersey Technology Park and the Board of Visitors of the Mayes College, University of the Sciences. He is an Eisenhower Fellow.

Prior to joining the Science Center, Chris worked for a number of biomedical start-up companies, and was a practicing companion animal veterinarian in the United Kingdom, where he is a Member of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons. He completed his veterinary training and his PhD (in endocrinology) at the University of Sydney, and his post-doctoral training (in molecular biology) at the University Of Pennsylvania’s School Of Medicine.